MF - 610 HUMAN SEXUALITY

Jan 29 to May 14, 2008, Thursdays 8:30-11:30
Email: dfriesen@mbseminary.edu

Delores Friesen, Ph.D.
Office: 452-1711 T-W-F

Course Description: This course will explore physiological, psychological, theological and social aspects of human sexuality that are of importance to the counselor or pastor, who wishes to minister effectively in this area. Topics will include pastoral and therapeutic considerations of: sexual development, variations in human sexual response, AIDS/HIV/STDs, sexual dysfunction and treatment, sexual counseling and therapy, sexual offender issues, infertility, postpartum depression, rape, incest, and sexual addiction. The course will be conducted as a graduate level seminar. Each student is expected to come to class prepared by previous reading, and will bring an illustrative case and three questions that are relevant to the day's topic. Treatment plans for some of the cases will be developed in role plays. Further supervised training, however, will be required before students may assume competency in working with sexual issues with individuals, couples and families.

Course Objectives:

- 1 . To increase awareness of the wide variation of human sexual response, functioning and development and to become more comfortable with and accepting of one's own and of other's sexuality.
2. To gain information about sexual disorders, the etiological explanations, the current treatment modalities, and the application of those modalities in counseling and ministry, including the importance of making appropriate referrals.
- 3 . To create an atmosphere of openness and frankness that can decrease the disability and discomfort many students experience in dealing with sexual subjects so that they may become sensitive and skilled in managing sexual feelings and issues in their own lives and in their clinical or pastoral work.

Related Degree Outcomes (for specific competency outcomes, see page 12):

1. To confront and discuss the various points of view in controversial sexual issues, so that convictions can be strengthened & respect for differences can be increased.
2. To acknowledge personal feelings, experiences and prejudices so there is more awareness of what is carried to interactions with others.
3. To encourage more active involvement in counseling, teaching, preaching, and pastoral care in the area of human sexuality, so the church can be engaged in witness, healing, justice, and prevention; not just crisis ministry.
- 4 . To become acquainted with Biblical and other resources regarding sexuality that articulate commitment to a biblical theological Christian perspective.

May 7 Guest Speakers, Additional Clinical Issues, Sharing from Student Projects
All Weekly Logs and Student Projects are Due.

May 14 Final Exam (This may be a Take Home, available on the 7th, Due on 14th.)

ASSIGNMENTS AND EXPECTATIONS:

1. READING - There are many, varied resources on the topic of Human Sexuality including the Internet and community agencies. The suggestions given on the daily schedule are items that are particularly relevant to that day's topic, but it is expected that each student will make different choices depending vocational goals and availability of time and resources. Read before the class date, dividing your study time between intake/input/resources and expression of your own questions, responses, ideas, and values. Try to spend at least one-two hours per week writing; one hour interviewing, discussing or observing (videos, movies, professionals in the field, agencies, congregations); and three-four hours reading, surfing the net, or researching. Please read at least 1200 pages for three units of credit. Videos and movies can be included. As you read, watch for suitable cases and questions that will illustrate the topic and issues being discussed. You may also create your own cases and your own questions. You are encouraged to collaborate and share resources with other students.

2. WEEKLY LOG – Each student is required to provide three questions, one case and a record of what she or he has read or watched in preparation for each week's subject. These are due in my box or e-mail no later than noon each Monday (Friday is strongly encouraged.) Following each class session, take some time to reflect on your experience in the class, your personal history that influences how you approach this subject, and your response to the readings, issues, topics, relevant events in the news or community, and any movies or videos you view. Please date these logged entries. Clippings, cartoons, and drawings may be included. You may also use this as an avenue to explore cases that were shared in class, to ask further questions, or to process your final project. Occasionally you may be asked to respond to something specific in your weekly log. All reading and audio visuals that you have watched should be noted. Please hand in a hard copy of all thirteen weekly logs together, along with any further dialogue or written responses to your logs, on May 6th.

3. EXAMS - There will be a Midterm Exam on Mar. 19 and a Final Exam on May 14. It is imperative that you comprehend accurate facts, if you are going to be a caregiver and information source for other persons, so there will be some objective questions. The final will focus primarily on sexual dysfunctions and recovery from abuse and incest. It will include several cases. Students need to develop competencies in identifying issues, creating appropriate treatment plans and referrals, recognizing theological/spiritual aspects, and countertransference issues. More information will be given in class regarding the exams.

4. SMALL GROUPS AND ROLE PLAY PARTICIPATION- Each student, including auditing students, will participate during class time in group activities, role plays, and discussion. The goals are to become more aware of feelings and attitudes, and to increase comfort and skill in talking with others about sexuality. Comfort and skill does not come automatically, it must be practiced and developed. Many persons find sexual topics occasionally embarrassing, distasteful, or sexually arousing. It is permissible to have these various feelings, but it is unacceptable to display them before a client. All efforts at putting the client at ease and disseminating much needed information will be wasted if counselors and pastors cannot deal with their own discomfort with sexual concerns. Verbal and nonverbal cues may still deliver the true but hidden message that says, "Please don't talk to me about this subject." The group task is to develop non-judgmental, caring attitudes and skills in communicating effectively about sexual matters. Please help one another by willing participation, encouragement and honest, concrete feedback.

5. PAPERS: TWO MAIN PAPERS ARE REQUIRED.

FIRST REQUIRED PAPER: Due April 2st. Early papers are always welcome!

Additional guidelines for the sexual interviews will be given in class. Appropriate ethical conduct and boundaries are required. Please read Pomeroy's book on interviewing as soon as possible. It is not appropriate to interview someone in your family or classes. However, you may have someone you know who would be willing to participate and can suggest their availability for another student in the class, who is not personally acquainted with them. If you are already seeing clients, or doing intakes at a work site, please consult with your supervisor and the instructor to make certain that any interviewing you do is appropriate to their treatment.

PLEASE CHOOSE ONLY ONE OF THE FOLLOWING OPTIONS FOR YOUR FIRST

PAPER: Try to make a decision as to which option you will choose by the second week of the semester. It would be helpful to have your tentative choices of possible topics for your second paper also by that date. (February 12). This will help to eliminate duplication, and also facilitate sharing of your library research on the appropriate date instead of all of them coming on one day!

Sexual Interviews A detailed handout regarding this assignment will be provided. Two interviews are recommended for MFCC Majors, one male, one female. Please consult Pomeroy, et. al. Taking A Sex History. Non-Majors usually do a project/positional paper on an ethical or pastoral issue, unless they wish to gain experiences in interviewing. Please talk with the instructor before doing this assignment. Your interview plans, visits and sex education projects need prior approval to insure appropriate ethical and professional boundaries. The notes that you write up will be read and approved by the interviewee before you turn it in to the instructor. The interviewer also needs to write a brief statement about his or her feelings and comfort levels during the interview. You may not interview friends, classmates or relatives. Please Note: This option is strongly recommended for MFCC majors. If this option is chosen, it requires two interviews. Due: April 2	Project/Positional Paper There are many ethical and counseling issues in the area of human sexuality, for example: premarital sex, infertility, desire disorders, church discipline for "sexual sins", surrogate mothering, abortion, genetic engineering, gay rights, pornography, sterilization of mentally disabled persons. Choose an issue where you need to develop counseling skills or clarify your own thinking and convictions. Plan some kind of project that will get you in touch with the real life dilemmas behind this issue, e.g. visit the crisis pregnancy center, New Creation, AIDS Center, Rape Counseling Center; or talk with a person who does sexual counseling, prepare and present a Sunday School or youth group session on the issue, survey and critique books, resources, research, current debate, etc. Briefly describe what you did in your project to acquaint yourself with the various facets of the issue then write your position statement. It would be good to also briefly describe alternate positions. Due: April 2	Sex Education Programming (This can be a group project) - You are invited to a congregation to help them in the area of Human Sexuality. What will you do? What topics will you cover? Your response should be 5-10 pages typed, and must include: -ideas, outlines, & texts for Sunday morning sermon (s). - sessions for youth, and adults, together or separate - some inclusion of children, take home suggestions for parents, or children's sermon ideas, resources. -goals and objectives, some ongoing long range plans - content and activities; should not be all didactic -questions for the groups to wrestle with. -resources, bibliography, audio-visuals perhaps Create a file of ideas! Make a list of all resources consulted or gathered. If two or three students wish to work on this project, it may be a collaborative effort. Be sure to document sources. It may be possible to actually do some of this on location. Due: April 2

SECOND REQUIRED PAPER: The purpose of this paper is to allow each student to pursue one topic in depth by engaging in a Library Search/Essay/Term Project In addition to the suggested readings in the syllabus, engage in a Library Search, including journals, e.g. Archives of Sexual Behavior, Journal of Sex Research, Journal of Sex and Marital Therapy, Journal of Homosexuality, Sex Roles, SIECUS Reports, Journal of Psychology and Human Sexuality, Journal of Social Work and Human Sexuality, Journal of the History of Sexuality. Depending on your topic, you may wish to consult the Alliant University – California School of Professional Psychology, the CSUF and public libraries and the Internet in addition to Hiebert Library. Please reference all sources, including the Internet. APA citations and footnotes are expected.

Ideally the library search/essay/term project should contribute to the overall theme of this course: Finding Hope and Healing: Creating Wholeness, Intimacy, Community. e.g., if you choose the topic of infertility, explore how this disturbs wholeness, intimacy and community, and how caregivers bring hope and healing to persons affected by this problem. Your final product should be 8-10 pages of text, plus bibliography and the printout of your library search. Include at least one case example or situation, and if possible, participate in and describe an action project, visit or interview that helped you further comprehend how you might become involved in this ministry. Hand in two copies of your paper and bibliography. There will be time for students to share plans for their Project/Essay/Search with the class, on the day when the topic is discussed if possible, or at the end of the term. Completed Paper Due: May 14. To avoid duplication, please check with the instructor before beginning your search. Choose a subject from one of the areas listed in the Class Schedule, create your own topic or focus on one of the following:

Sexual Counseling	Homosexuality
Sexual Interviewing	Sexuality and the Disabled
Sermon and Christ. Educ. Ideas on Sexuality	Population control: by what means?

	Male Bonding

ACADEMIC POLICES. MBBS academic policies (as well as other school policies) are described at <http://www.mbseminary.edu/fresno/policies>. These policies provide guidance on academic integrity and plagiarism, incomplete course work, extensions, dates for changing registration, non-discriminatory and inclusive language, appeals, accommodations for disabilities, grading, etc. Students are expected to be familiar with these policies and will be held responsible for adhering to them. If you have questions about how these policies relate to you or to a situation that you face in your studies, please speak to an instructor or consult the Registrar.

A. It is assumed and expected that any oral or written work is the product of the student's own work, and that the sources used are acknowledged and cited properly. Cheating and plagiarism are prohibited and may result in failure on a piece of work, in a course, or even dismissal from the Seminary. Work, including reading, submitted for one course should not be submitted in a second course without permission of the instructors involved.

B. All assignments must be completed in order to earn a passing grade for the course. Students are asked to submit hard-copy versions of their assignments to the instructor, as papers sent electronically as file attachments will not be printed by the instructors. Please submit your interviews and weekly logs in an envelope to help ensure confidentiality.

C. "Student work will be evaluated by two standards: a) by what is considered the appropriate level of graduate performance, and b) by comparison with work submitted in a given class" (<http://www.mbseminary.edu/fresno/policies/grading>).

D. Course evaluations are to be completed online and are due after the completion of the course. Official grades will not be posted until the student's evaluation of the course is complete

E. Students have the option of taking one extension per semester, provided the professor agrees. There is an additional charge for an extension and all assignments must be completed within one month after the end of the semester to receive credit.

EVALUATION:

Personal change and growth is not always evidenced by grades. Hopefully evaluation can be a combination of personal, peer, and instructor response. There are many valuable topics and resources in this course. Please schedule your time and be realistic about what you need to focus on, but don't underestimate yourself. "B" level work responds to the intent of the assignment, and evidences good skills, research, writing, and organization. "A" grades are given for work which evidences the above, but is also exceptional in terms of creativity in organization, style, approach, depth or comprehensiveness of treatment or skills. "C" grades are reserved for assignments which do not meet the spirit of the assignment, are too short, or evidence poor research, skills, organization, or writing. MBBS is committed to faculty and students' use of nondiscriminatory language both in the classroom and in assignments. Late papers are graded lower. The weekly Monday noon deadline is non negotiable, if possible hand these in on Friday. If you submit them electronically, please also submit a hard copy by Monday .

Weekly Questions/Readings/Cases	Due each Monday noon	30%
Interviews or Alternate Project	Due April 2	10%
Midterm and Final Examinations	Due March 19, May 14	30%
Class Attendance/Preparation/Participation		5%
Library Search/Essay/Project	Due. May 14	25%

The Library Search/Project/Essays will be graded as follows:

CLARITY OF WRITING (25%)

- * Clear statement of purpose of thesis
- * Good outline
- * Clear thought flow
- * Gives evidence of understanding of and engagement with the issues

COMPREHENSIVENESS (25%)

- * Covers the theme; does not focus on only one topic
- * Coverage of the field or issues, including Biblical, ethical or moral aspects
- * Includes observations, experiences, or illustrative material
- * Shows evidence of reading both in breadth and depth

CREATIVITY (25%)

- * Shows creativity in treatment or presentation
- * Thoughtful questions, ideas or projects are included
- * Contains holistic, integrative material
- * Story, Case Material, poetry, quotations, artwork, visuals, vignettes

LOGIC AND ARGUMENTATION (10%)

- * Evidence provided for argument made
- * Documentation provided where needed -- footnotes, notes, and bibliography
- * Valid critique and/or antithesis also noted

FORM MEETS AGREED UPON STANDARDS (10%)

- * Ideas are clear, organized, and arranged appropriately
- * Proofreading, grammar, punctuation and spell checks are completed
- * Inclusive language is assumed
- * APA Style or some other consistent bibliographic notation is followed

CARE AND PROMPTNESS (5%)

ASSUMPTIONS:

1. Although many of us have had sex education courses prior to this, varying degrees of sexual activity, and various forms of sexual expression, none of us, (instructor and guest speakers included) "know it all" or can be considered an expert in the field of human sexuality. Therefore we will learn, share, discuss, and explore together. Your instructor wants to be helpful, not directive.

2. Human sexuality involves a complex set of variables. It is a rich pattern of feeling, knowledge, and behavior emanating from the very heart of the human personality that in a real way defines our humanity. Therefore, no one can fully understand human sexuality. The Bible describes it as a "mystery"; and so it is. Those who regard it lightly, or treat it casually are only betraying their ignorance.

3. All of us are in this course for a serious and worthwhile purpose. We are dealing with intimate, sensitive issues, and no matter how we handle our class material, what is done may be controversial. Commitment to the course, the group, & to each other is important to the success of the experience. No two of us will be at the same place in human sexuality expression, knowledge, or behavior. We can happily function with this as a given, & will offer openness, acceptance & respect to each other.

4. The spiritual dimensions of human sexuality (ignored in most sex education courses) will be acknowledged and affirmed. There will be support here for a lifestyle which is joyously sexual and which fathoms a freedom in one's sexuality far deeper than is possible for those with only a narrow secular view of what sex is all about. Singleness, as well as marriage, will be affirmed.

5. Students are expected to attend all classes, and complete all assignments to receive a passing grade. It is assumed that students have taken other classes such as psychopathology, child abuse, domestic violence, clinical assessment, and human development prior to this course.

6. The HIV/AIDS course may be taken either prior to or subsequent to this course. Engaging in personal therapy and supervision of all client work is expected of students who are in training to become a marriage, family and child therapist or counselor. Pastoral students and audit students who take the course are also expected to recognize and work on their personal issues.

Specific Course Outcomes and Expected Competencies:

- 1. Recognize and differentiate normal sexual functioning from sexual disorders.
- 2. Able to assess clients for sexual disorders based on the DSM-IV-TR categories.
- 3. Integrate information about a client's culture, gender, gender identity and sexual orientation into a treatment plan for a sexual disorder or sexual dysfunction.
- 4. Develop specific treatment plans for individual clients and couples who present with sexual issues and problems.

- 5. Integrate spiritual and theological considerations in the treatment plans.
- 6. Demonstrate knowledge of major treatment approaches to specific sexual disorders.
- 7. Incorporate treatment of sexual issues in couple and individual therapy when appropriate.
- 8. Clinical interviewing skills, including taking a sexual history and assessing for sexual dysfunction.
- 9. Recognition of the relationship and communication factors that impact a couple's sexual functioning.
- 10. Demonstrate knowledge of developmental, biological, and relationship issues that impact sexuality.
- 11. Awareness of ethical and legal reporting responsibilities, duty to warn, confidentiality.
- 12. Acquaintance with professional literature, journals, research, and referral sources that will provide ongoing education and mentoring for further skill development in providing therapeutic services in the area of sexuality.
- 13. Recognition of the importance of addressing sexuality issues in the church through education, worship, healing services, pastoral care, and counseling.
- 14. Respect for and understanding of human differences, disabilities, and disorders.
- 15. Recognize and be willing to work on personal biases, counter transference issues, and personal history that may impact one's ability to counsel others.

These outcomes will be evidenced by role plays, treatment planning, writing and discussion that takes place within the class time; as well as through reading, written work, examinations, and personal dialogue and interchange with the professor and other class members.
